

ROAD MAP PROJECT

DATA ADVISORS

The Road Map Project Data Advisors are a multi-sector learning community of education researchers and data administrators from local cities, King County and Washington state government, as well as each of the seven Road Map Project districts, various community-based organizations, and local colleges. The central function of this group is to uphold the Road Map Project vision and values and to support the project's workgroups and partners achieve the regional goals.

The Data Advisors is open-membership and volunteer-based group. The group convenes bimonthly to share best practices, challenges and policies impacting the region's youth with a focus on equity in data reporting and analysis. The Data Advisors provide technical and research expertise as well as institutional knowledge to support partners with:

- MEASUREMENT STRATEGIES GROUNDED IN EQUITY
- MULTI-SECTOR DATA ALIGNMENT
- ADVOCACY AND AWARENESS

ROLES

Data Advisor meetings are convened by the Community Center for Education Results (CCER) Data Team and joint-led with a chair. The Chair is a voted position that rotates annually and is filled by a Data Advisor member or shared among co-chairs. The Chair works closely with the CCER Data Team staffer to develop meeting agendas; elevate member goals; and integrate racial equity in to the practices of the group.
